Institute for Advanced Study (IAS)

New appointments in IAS governance

This new year starts with several new people on board, and some familiar faces in new roles: Claes de Vreese and Casper van Elteren have started as new IAS Associates; Han van der Maas and Michael Lees will further strengthen our research core on complexity methods; and Julia Hoffmann will start as our new Institute/Programme manager.

New research fellows

We will soon welcome several new research fellows at the institute. Naja Hulvej Rod and Morten Hulvej Rod will both explore the use of various complexity science methods in the public health domain. Leo Tiokhin and Noah van Dongen will together look into the unintended consequences of scientific reforms.
